

The Future of Road Safety Conference 2015

Wednesday 24th June 2015 | Adelphi House, University of Salford, Greater Manchester

Special offer for BRAKE members - 25% discount (50 Discounted Places Available until 30th March 2015)

Confirmed speakers at the Future of Road Safety Conference Include; David GDavies – Executive Director – PACTS and Emeritus Professor Stephen Stadling – Transport Research Institute, Edinburgh Napier University.

The Future of Road Safety Conference 2015 will give those present the opportunity to discuss and debate the latest strategies and initiatives for improving road safety across the UK. Delegates will examine key plans for road safety and will hear a number of different perspectives and best practice case studies as to how this can be achieved.

This Conference will cover:

- The Government's vision for improving road safety in the UK
- Creating a safer road network across the UK
- Improving road safety through maintaining a resilient, safe road network
- Ensuring road users are able to use the roads safely and efficiently
- Improving safety for motorcycle riders
- Improving the skills and behaviours needed to be a safe and responsible driver or rider of all categories of vehicles
- Delivering a multi-agency approach to improving local road safety standards
- Working in partnership with local authorities, police and schools to increase the standard of local road safety through education and awareness
- Sharing resources between key local stakeholders to develop, plan and implement road safety initiatives
- Engaging the community to ensure road safety initiatives meet local requirements

Full course agenda can be found on our website <http://www.salford.ac.uk/spd>

£224.25 plus VAT per delegate for BRAKE members (group booking discounts are also available)

How to register

BOOK online –visit www.salford.ac.uk/spd use discount code BRAKE25

Contact us – e: e.leach@salford.ac.uk t: +44 (0)161 295 0115
